Choose one of the things below that you think your partner does and enjoys, or your partner doesn't do but would enjoy. Try to ask the right "Do you like...?" or "Would you like...?" question to get a positive answer. You might need to change the grammar and/ or add words to make the thing below fit into the question that you want to make.

Share two sentences about your partner, one with "like" and one with "would like", and see if anyone else in class feels the same.

Ask about anything above you don't understand, working together to make and answers suitable questions each time.

Continue the same game, but this time with your own ideas for things to ask about.
