

Names of months dominoes games

Instructions for teachers

Choose which set of cards below you want to use and cut up one set per class or group. Don't cut down the middle of the cards, but leave the end of one word and the beginning of the next one attached, like dominoes.

Give out the cards and get students to work together to put them together in order, using the clues of the endings of each word and/ or thinking about which word comes next.

There are several different ways of doing this activity:

- Put the cards on the table in order, mix them up while students watch, and ask students to put them back in order
- Students work together to put the cards in a line on the table (with the first set of cards)
- Students work together to put the cards in a circle on the table (if you use the months circle version of the cards)
- Put one card face up on the table, deal out the rest of the cards and ask students to take turns putting cards from their hand in the right place whenever they can (like a real game of dominoes, so best with the circular set)
- Put one card face up on the table, deal out the rest of the cards, and ask students to race to put down all of their cards as quickly as they can (without waiting their turn, but obviously having to wait until the matching cards are on the table before they can put the other half of the word down, making kind of a dominoes race)

If students get stuck, you can let them look at a list of the spellings of the words or an un-cut-up copy of the worksheet below and then try again, the first time without looking any more at that hint but just doing it from memory.

If the students are ready for a further challenge, you can ask them to do the same thing with completely cut cards, perhaps cutting through the middle of the cards in front of them.
